RECARO JetSet – the all-rounder

Marktleugast / Germany. RECARO continues the development of its ‘offroad’ products - with the new wooden high chair RECARO JetSet.

The transition from manufacturing innovative seating for premium class vehicles to developing high-quality child seats is short. Likewise, there is no great difference between child seats and other child safety products – particularly when they revolve around seats.

When it comes to manufacturing high chairs, the vital aspect is the material – the wood. As safety and quality are of utmost importance to RECARO the entire manufacturing process – from sawing the tree trunks right through to responsible final checks – takes place in our German production centre. This guarantees the high quality we claim and you expect. RECARO also understands the importance of protecting and preserving the environment and ensures that this is maintained throughout the manufacturing process.

The RECARO JetSet is two chairs in one, made from top quality beech, the practical high chair is suitable for babies from just four months by using the insert cushion reducer - and can later be used as an attractive chair for young people weighing up to 50 kg using the various settings.

We would particularly like to draw attention to the well engineered design and the ergonomic backrest. Chrome plated metal parts lead to a remarkably high-quality visual appearance and the rounded corners reduce the risk of injury. The high chair is designed to be adjusted to the height of the child and the adjustable play / eating tray can be removed easily when the child is older. The seat and footrest are separately adjustable.

The RECARO JetSet is available from specialised traders. RECARO gives a 5 year guarantee on all wooden parts and the JetSet is available in beech and white colours. Inserts can be ordered in four different designs, two of which are synthetic leather.

There are many high chairs available – but RECARO JetSet is the one and only.

Safety, ergonomics and comfort – right from the start with RECARO

About the company:

Recaro is an independent company within the global Keiper Recaro Group which operates at 34 locations worldwide. Just under 8,000 employees in the Keiper, Recaro and Recaro Aircraft Seating divisions work on the production of high-quality mobile seating products in motor vehicles and aeroplanes. In 2006, the group recorded sales revenues of around € 1.3 billion.

Recaro is backed by a long tradition. Founded in 1906 by master saddlemaker Wilhelm Reutter – originally as a coach-building factory – Recaro can look back on over 100 years of company history. Reutter produced car bodies for vehicles such as the Porsche 356, VW Beetle, BMW 328, Horch and many other famous names. The Recaro brand was created by combining the two words REutter and CAROsserien. The first Recaro sports seat was presented in 1965. After the merger with Keiper in 1969, Recaro became an independent member of the Keiper Recaro family of companies, and has constantly redefined the concept of mobile seating through its innovations ever since.
